A few weeks ago Leveland News showed where the Dorcas Society of this district had made one pair of pillow-cases. This should have read seventeen pair, for the Junior Red Cross Hospital.

Everyone in this district is beating the forty hour week. Harvesting is going in full swing. In most cases harvesting and seeding are being done at the same time. It took only one week to fill all the elevators. Many of them were putting in as much as twenty hours a day.

Alex Herrmann of Calgary is helping with the harvesting and seeding at John Leiske's.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kindopp of Calgary are at the home of their son, Melvin, helping with the harvesting and seeding operations.

Starlight Chapter Has Social Evening

CROSSFIELD — The Starlight Chapter of Eastern Stars, Crossfield, held a very ice social evening on Friday, April 25, at 8:30 in the Masonic Hall. About 50 people attended, which was half of the number anticipated. The prevailing fair weather found so many in the fields, which prevented them from putting in an appearance.

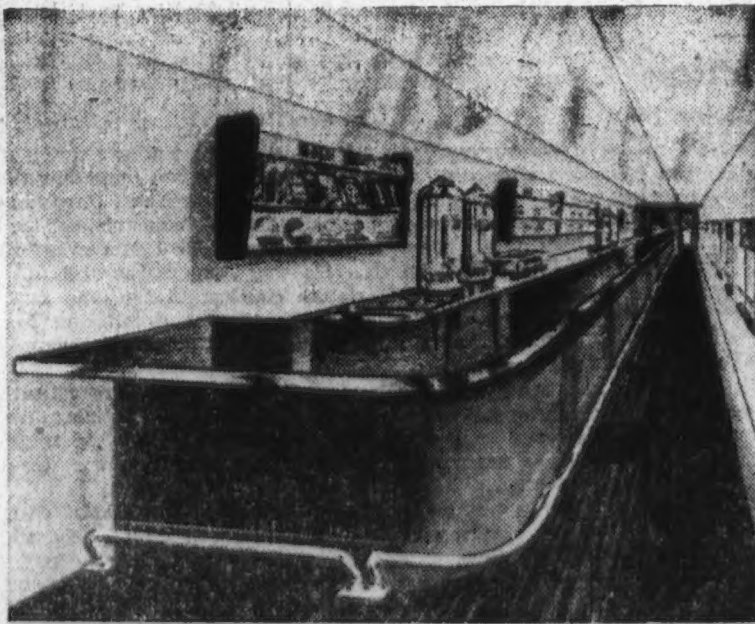

A few card games and dancing to recordings started the evening's festivities. Mrs. Hutchings, Worthy Matron, opened the program with a pleasant address of welcome, which was followed by a vocal duet by Beverly Anne Stillings and Pat Helzer. This duet was sung on Amateur Night and the girls made a very pleasant repeat. Carol High, talented pianist, delighted those present with a pleasing pianoforte selection and encore. Exhibition square dances were enjoyed. Donald Clayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Clayton, of Airdrie, imitated Harry Lauder in a vocal rendition of "It's Nice to Get Up in the Morning," and for encore, "It's Nice to Get Your Breakfast in Your Bed on Sunday Morning". This young lad percent, and was given a big hand from the crowd. Sharon Stillings favored with a sprightly tap dance. Joanne Copley delighted all with a vocal rendition and encore, and as usual her songs were very much enjoyed. Little Rowland Stillings felt a little too shy and tired to sing, as the evening was getting late for wee fellows.

A delightful lunch was served and a birthday cake, made and decorated with Star colors, by Mrs. Webster, was the centre of attraction. Mr. Murphy was master of ceremonies and called on various persons for remarks. Mrs. Charney and Carol High were accompanists for the program and Bill Patullo was chairman of the program.

AN ARTIST'S IMPRESSION of the interior of the Canadian Pacific Railway's new restaurant-counter cars which will go into service soon to feed over 50,000 immigrants which the railway expects to carry from eastern Canadian ports to points across the country during 1952 is shown above. The new cars follow a design conceived by the CPR's sleeping and dining, colonization, and mechanical departments after tests conducted last year with stripped-down standard dining cars proved the need for newly designed equipment. Their aim is to provide less costly meals more quickly in a setting which will make the traveller feel at ease.

Judge In District Court Grants Appeal

By HENRY THOMPSON

An application for an appeal against an order issued by a magistrate under the Domestic Relations Act was granted and the case brought up for trial before Judge McIsaac in the District Court at St. Paul, March 25.

The court decided that the husband's action in returning to the farm did not constitute desertion within the meaning of the Act. The husband had followed his wife on her teaching work and failed to better his financial condition by labor jobs and a picture show business. His action in leaving the school teachership for the farm was a desire to provide better living conditions for the family.

The wife's refusal to follow her husband's occupation and the husband's equally determined stand that he would not support his family in any other abode except in the new home he had built for the family, drew some pointed remarks to both parents in their lack of true consideration for the best interests of the three children.

The father again in this court expressed his desire for the return of his wife and children and did not in this court or in the others, express any disparaging remarks or evidence against his wife's character. His answers to all questions by the solicitors drew only the briefest recital of the bare facts of the case.

In comparison, the wife's lurid explanations of stormy scenes in the marital relations were highlights of a damaging nature to the husband's character, conduct and ability and proved the truth of the old saying that "love is blind". The fact that they lived only seven miles apart and went to school together, left no doubt in my mind that she showed bad judgement in choosing a man with all the shortcomings that have developed since the marriage.

Contrary to general opinion, action in domestic relations cases, the apparent leinancy of the courts in favor of women is based on statistical fact. In the majority of cases the evidence nearly always proves the man to be at fault. The evidence in this court conclusively proved the husband made many sacrifices to save the marriage and was still fighting to save the pieces.

The court had no jurisdiction in the matter of custody of the children and it is assumed further litigation will take place to this end.

The judge in his summary of the case on announcement of his decision, reminded both parents of their responsibility to the children and suggested the father might contribute something to their support, pending further action.

EDITORIALS

Domestic Price Of Wheat

Farm organizations in western Canada are strongly of the opinion that the domestic price of wheat should not be kept on the same level as prices for wheat under the International Wheat Agreement, as is the case at the present time.

These organizations are of the opinion that the domestic price should have some relationship to the general price level in Canada.

Canadian people earn about twice as much as do the British people. It seems reasonable, therefore, that they should pay more money for their wheat than do the impoverished British.

Results With Liquid Fertilizers

Liquid fertilizers designed for application to the seed have been on the market in western Canada in recent years. An experiment was conducted at the Experimental Sub-Station at Regina in 1951 comparing the liquid fertilized seed treatment with the commonly used ammonium phosphate fertilizer, 11-48-0. Also included in this test was a dust type of fertilizer designed for application to the seed.

The 11-48-0 was drilled into the soil with the seed at the rate of 35 pounds of fertilizer per acre. One set of plots received both the liquid seed treatment and the ammonium phosphate fertilizer, and one set of plots received no fertilizer. These treatments were repeated six times on randomized plots of wheat, oats, barley, and flax, says Superintendent J. Roe Foster.

With wheat, the liquid fertilizer gave an average increase of 0.7 bushels per acre. The dust treatment increased yields by 1.0 bushels per acre. The ammonium phosphate increased yields by 3.4 bushels, and a combination of the liquid fertilizer and the ammonium phosphate increased yields by 4.4 bushels per acre. The small increases associated with the liquid fertilizer are within the expected experimental error and could be chance increases.

Similarly with oats and barley the fertilizers applied as a seed treatment gave only small increases in yield compared with ammonium phosphate. Flax yields were not increased by any of the treatments in this test.

Ammonium phosphate fertilizer applied at from 35 to 45 pounds per acre has given profitable increases in yields when sown on summerfallowed land at Regina. The use of this fertilizer on stubble land has not increased yields, and it is therefore not recommended for stubble crops.

Liquid fertilizers are not recommended for seed treatment on either summerfallow or stubble.

British Farm Production

British farmers are now producing 50% more food than they did in 1938. The yields of wheat and many other crops are more than double those of North America. In fact they are greater than in any other nation in the world except Denmark.

About 7% of Britain's working population is employed in agriculture and 92% in industry, yet that 7% is producing enough food to supply the British with 50% of their requirements.

At the same time British farmers with only 30,000,000 acres cannot feed 50,000,000 people.

They are doing their best, however, and use sound farm practices and efficient methods to insure high production. British farms are highly mechanized, with 12 tractors to each 1,000 acres of farm land.

Note and Comment

There are two classes of demagogues: One consciously and selfishly misleads people with personal interests in mind; the other sincerely — out of ignorance.

People who lose their tempers playing a game ought not to play games.

British Turn To Kuwait

The small sheikdom of Kuwait, located on the northern end of the Persian Gulf, is rapidly becoming the main source of Great Britain's oil in the Middle East. This small corner of the Arabian desert—about the size of Prince Edward Island—is expected to average a daily production rate of 800,000 barrels of oil this year.

If this production goal is achieved, it will represent at least a seventy per cent gain over last year's production. Operations in this small sheikdom went into high gear in 1951 when Iran seized vast British oil properties in that country.

The flow of oil from Kuwait has produced a tremendous income for Sheik Abdullah al Salem al Sabah, who is now one of the world's richest men. His income, from fifty per cent of the net profits, is expected to reach almost $200,000,000 this year.

With this money, Sheik Abdullah is spending millions on schools, hospitals, utilities and other improvements for his 150,000 subjects. It is likely that these 150,000 inhabitants will soon possess a standard of living which would not have been possible in a hundred years without the sudden need for oil among Western democracies.

Lions Don't Know the Difference

(From the Calgary Albertan)

There's no denying that Christendora has its back to the wall. It is losing ground. Its influence is waning.

Protestants and Catholics, without surrendering their identity or compromising their distinctiveness, should remember at this time of crisis that both are Christian, and that compared with what they have in common their points of difference are as nothing. They should join hands in mutual defence against the onslaught of materialism, cynicism and despair, and in proclaiming the Christian way.

Instead, we find Cardinal Segura of Spain leading a crusade against a tiny band of Protestants as if they were the very devil himself.

The Spanish government keeps Protestant chapels closed, refuses to permit the building of new chapels, forbids Protestant worship in private homes. It turns a deaf ear to the cries of Protestants being stoned by the mobs.

A slackening in that campaign of persecution was noticed when King George VI died recently. Apparently many Spanish people expressed regret at the passing of this monarch who was also head of a great Protestant church. And the Spanish government, anxious to come to terms with the United States, was said to be considering slight relaxation of the prohibitions against Protestantism.

It was then that the cardinal cracked the whip. It was "heresy," he said, to extend "benevolence" to that little band of people. He warned that any such move would not be tolerated.

Protestantism, too, has its bigots, but we doubt that there are any extremists like Cardinal Segura in such high places. Tolerance toward dissenting faiths is an essential tenet of many Protestant denominations.

In contrast to the stand taken by Cardinal Segura should be placed that of another cardinal, Mindzenty of Hungary. In that sad land Protestants and Catholics stood shoulder to shoulder, were thrown into the same dungeons, tarred with the same lies, tortured with the same instruments that only a fiendish mind could devise. Cardinal Mindzenty wasn't concerned with "benevolence" or lack of it toward Protestantism. He had a greater battle on his hands. He was the symbol of truth and justice and Christian charity, to Catholic and Protestant alike, and the mental crucifixion he endured was an inspiration to Christians around the world.

And so in China. Catholic and Protestant missionaries were not afflicted with intolerance toward each other. How could they be when they were deported equally, maligned together, imprisoned alike, and executed side by side?

Must it be that true brotherhood in Christ can only be imposed from without, can only be found in the face of common persecution? Must Christians be thrown to the lions to appreciate their common identity? Lions, they say, can't tell a Catholic from a Protestant.

The Christian Church in both Spain and Canada, we venture, would be more Christian if it had a dose of what the governments of China and Hungary have been handing out.

EFFICIENT ANIMAL SCIENTISTS

By H. G. L. Strange

The dread foot and mouth disease has at last struck in Canada for the first time in her history. Canada indeed is almost the only country in the world that has not previously suffered from this trouble.

Canada, however, fortunately possesses a highly efficient group of animal scientists, associated with dominion and provincial governments and our universities, who have followed intently the course of outbreaks in other countries and who know just what to do.

As soon as the disease was diagnosed our scientists went into action, quarantined the area and proceeded to deal with it in a most efficient way. The result unquestionably will be that the outbreak will be stamped out and prevented from spreading to other areas. Naturally for a time our prairie livestock industry will be seriously harmed. The losses, however, will be considerably reduced by the efficiency of our scientists in animal health in preventing the spreading of the disease. It is to be hoped that noting this prompt and scientific action in dealing with the trouble the United States will remove her present prohibition against the importation of Canadian livestock sooner than most people expect. What a great debt we owe to our workers in animal science who have jumped into action so quickly and well!

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

Finland's import requirements for bread grains in the 1951-52 consumption year will be the highest in many years. Normal requirements are estimated at from 200,000 to 220,000 metric tons of wheat, about 120,000 tons of rye and about 30,000 tons of oats. In the 1949-50 crop year imports of wheat and rye were about 175,000 and 22,000 tons respectively, and in the 1950-51 crop year about 210,000 and 120,000 tons.

In Italy the recent flooding of about 250,000 acres in the Po delta and another 150,000 acres in the central Po Valley, in addition to the heavy damage in Calabria, Sicily and Sardinia, represent a setback to Italy's current efforts to increase agricultural production.

I say comic strip artists could get a few ideas from your Editorials and the Voice letters I see printed week by week. Why? Because they are often funnier than any comics. ### SEEDS OF DETERMINATION

More taxes bring higher prices, higher prices bring more taxes. They all mean worse inflation. Economists fear a recession will come out of our leapfrog economy. And how could it be otherwise when it already takes most of what people make just to eat at today's prices? If anyone thinks otherwise, let him take a look at other nations which have gone through the same thing.

FROM ALBERTA TO CALGARY

A newcomer to the neighborhood says to me one day, "How long are you living in Alberta?" I says I'm here since a small boy, and he asks, "Aren't you tired of this place, only bush around?" I said, "No, why, are you?" This neighbor says, "Ya, Heck with Alberta." Then I asked where he was going. He answered, "To Calgary."

EDMONTON STREETS

Here's a little poem I came across, which reminds me of the efforts of the City of Edmonton to provide paved roads. I'm reminded every time I drive to the City:

They took a little gravel,
And they took a little tar,
With various ingredients
Imported from afar,
They hammered it and rolled it.
And when they went away
They said they had a pavement
That would last for many a day.

But they came with picks and smote it
To lay a water main:
And then they called the workmen
To put it back again.
To run a railway cable
They took it up some more:
And then they put it back again
Just where it was before.

They took it up for conduits
To run the telephone,
And then they put it back again
As hard as any stone.
They took it up for wires
To feed the electric light,
And then they put it back again,
Which was no more than right.

Oh, the pavement's full of furrows,
There are patches everywhere;
You'd like to ride upon it,
But it's seldom that you dare.
It's a very handsome pavement,
A credit to the town;
They're always diggin' of it up
Or puttin' of it down.
Bruce, Alta. J.W.S.

PEDESTRIAN'S RIGHTS

Just arrived from Vancouver, where it is safe to walk. I was given to understand that pedestrians in Edmonton have the right-of-way. But while crossing 109th Street on the South Side last week I soon found out different. A City of Edmonton car, license number 16-H-10, missed me by inches although he could see me trying to get across a block away and blew his horn with threatening determination. I saved my life by stepping back just in time.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Taller

Finding she tired quickly, a woman decided to weigh herself. As she stepped off the scales her husband eyed her appraisingly and asked: "Well, what's the verdict? a little over-weight?"

"Oh, no," said his wife, "but according to that height table on the scales—I should be almost six inches taller!"

Point of View

Whenever it is said that a woman is making a fool of some man, we are always reminded of the incident in which a mother told her young son to stop pulling the cat's tail. "I'm not pulling it, Mama," he said, "I'm just holding it—he's pulling it."

Help!

An old maid was aroused one night to find a man under her bed. She neither fainted or screamed. Instead, she said, "Sit down, sir, I want to talk to you."

An hour later, there came a frantic ring over the telephone at police headquarters. "There's a burglar in Miss Spinister's bedroom. Send the police at once."

"All right," answered the sergeant. "Is this Miss Spinister speaking?"

"No," came the anguished voice, "this is the burglar."

Beneficiary

The stranger breezed in with a big smile: "Good morning, doctor. I just dropped in to tell you how much I benefited from your treatment."

Doctor: "But you're not one of my patients."

Stranger: "I know. But my uncle was and I'm his heir."

"That woman next door went and got a hat exactly like mine." "Did you make a fuss about it?" "No; I gave mine to the cook."

Argument Stopper

Two opposing political candidates argued on a busy street, while a crowd of spectators listened.

"There are hundreds of ways of making money," one of the campaigners declared, "but only one honest one."

"And what's that?" jeered the other.

"Ah, ha!" rejoined the first, "I thought you wouldn't know!"

One Way To Use It

A young couple sent a friend of theirs (an Australian woman living in this country) a playpen upon the arrival of her fourth child. Her "thank you" note left them somewhat astonished. "The pen is a perfect godsend," she wrote. "I sit in it every afternoon to read—and the children can't get near me."

Defence of Alberta To Be Augmented By Ground Observers

The Alberta Provincial Civil Defence is prepared to co-operate fully with the Ground Observer Corps when it begins operations, Air Vice Marshal G. R. Howsam, provincial co-ordinator, announced following a series of discussions with the officers of the Corps.

A branch of the Air Defence Command of the RCAF, the Ground Observer Corps is in the process of organizing here in the province. It is often referred to as the "eyes and ears of the Air Force" and played an important role in Great Britain in the last war. The purpose of the corps is to supplement the radar warning system of the RCAF and thousands of volunteers throughout all parts of the province are soon to be recruited.

Flying Officer F. M. Hewett, RCAF, veteran of the last war, has been appointed commanding officer of the Alberta Detachment of the GOC. He is presently occupying temporary offices at the RCAF Tactical Air Group Headquarters, Edmonton. Two filter centres, one at Calgary and other at Edmonton, have been slated.

The operations of the corps are simple. Civilian volunteer "spotters" stationed about the country will report everything mechanical in the skies to a filter centre. While the primary duty of the "spotters" is to report hostile aircraft, they will also report everything of value, such as aircraft in difficulties. At the filter centres all incoming reports will be plotted on special table maps and the information passed on to the RCAF.

"While the Ground Observers Corps will be under the complete control of the RCAF, we will co-operate fully. It is hoped that all members of Civil Defence Organizations will give every assistance to the observer corps," Air Vice Marshal Howsam stated.

The other day my five-year-old boy went to the barn to watch me milk. After a thoughtful silence, during which he apparently was meditating over an expression he had heard recently, he came out with, "Daddy, what would a cow do if you told it to 'hold it's horses'?"

A MODEL OF THE old Town Hall clock tower of Preston, England, was a unique Canadian Pacific Express shipment aboard the Empress of France when she docked at Saint John, N.B., last week. The model, which moved in the custody of Chief Bedroom Steward William C. Hartley (far right), a native of Preston, is now travelling throughout Canada and the United States, and is being displayed in the city halls of many of the major cities. With it is an illuminated scroll on which all ex-Prestonians are asked to sign their names. The clock tower, carved from the original timbers of the old structure which was destroyed by fire in 1947, is a symbol of the Preston Guild celebrations which, with the exception of the war years, have been held every 20 years for the last 400 years. They will be held in Preston on Sept. 1 this year and the model of the tower carried an invitation to all old Prestonians to attend. In this picture, taken the day the tour started in Liverpool aboard the Empress are (left to right): Councillor J. W. Taylor, mayor of Preston; Preston's town clerk, W. E. Lockley; D. B. Watson, general agent for the CPR at Liverpool, and Mr. Hartley. — (Canadian Pacific Railway Photo).

NEW FOR KIDDIES—The British Industries Fair, world-famous as the largest national industrial exhibition on earth, isn't all engineering and jewelry and textiles, etc. A large range of familiar and novel toys are displayed. New in the toy section this year when the 36th B.I.F. opens on May 5, will be the mobo-snail enthusiastically being tried out here by an English toddler.

Co-Eds Design, Build Robot Test Plane

TAKING SHAPE under the nimble fingers of boy and girl students of the Miles Aircraft Technical School, Berkshire, England, is a high-wing monoplane, named Venture. Designed entirely by the girls, it will, when finished, act as a test bed for an electric, automatic pilot being developed by the firm of which the school is part.

In the background of the top picture, two of the girls work on Venture, while (foreground) boys and another girl repair the airframe of another ship. On the left 19-years-old Barbara Beaven (left) and 21-years-old Jean Ashton make Venture's port-hole frames.

Started by a British aircraft manufacturer in 1940 with 24 girl students, the Miles school—attached to the production plant—is now co-educational with 120 students learning every subject of aircraft design and construction. Students, regardless of their educational background, are taken from the age of 16; interest and keenness are the only qualifications necessary.

THOSE "DEMON STATISTICIANS" that make up the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, will move into their fine new quarters in Ottawa this spring or early summer. Above is an early photo of the new building.

TWO CANADIAN naval officers who have carried out two full tours of duty in Korean waters are pictured above on a shopping expedition in a Japanese port shortly before their ship, HMCS Sioux, sailed for home. They are Commander Paul D. Taylor of Victoria, right, commanding officer of the Sioux, and Lieut.-Cmdr. Patrick C. Benson of Winnipeg and Victoria, executive officer of the destroyer. Cmdr. Taylor and Lieut.-Cmdr. Benson have each served 15 months in the Korean war theatre. — (National Defence Photo).

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa,

I always read with interest your columns in the Lac la Biche Herald, and I hope you will help me, too. My problem is this:

I have a teen age daughter who is sometimes quite a problem. She goes with a boy who is well thought of in the community and seems to be a very good boy. We have nothing to reproach him but the fact that he is always asking our girl to go on trips with him, that would involve staying a couple of days out of town. He even wanted to take her on a three-week trip in the next province, on his holidays. Of course, this time she would have stayed with his parents, but they could not make the trip all the same day. It took two days to go and two days to come back.

We did not let her go on any one of these trips, but she seems to think that we are hard on her and that there is nothing wrong with her going. We think that if he was a real gentleman, he would not ask a decent girl to travel
alone with him on such long trips.
I know that people would talk
very much and her reputation would not be very good around here if we let her go. She has obeyed us so far, but I wish you would publish my letter, at least part of it, and give us your opinion on the subject. She always reads your column and you might do more to make her understand than we can.

Thanking you in advance,

WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer:

Any young man who would ask

a single girl to accompany him on any overnight trip lacks in common respect for himself as well as the girl. It is true that we have a much more liberal attitude on social matters than previously,
but society still does not condone this sort of conduct.

If the young man's intentions are honorable, he should be the first to guard against any taint
in his courtship of your daughter.
For their happiness and yours, I strongly urge that your daughter make it plain to this young man that she will keep company with him as long as he shows her due respect, and that he is not doing this by asking her to go on questionable week-end trips alone
with him.

LOUISA.

Teachers To Strike If Salary Demands Not Met

The Alberta Teachers' Association at the annual general meeting held in Calgary last week endorsed strike action on part of member locals by setting up a special fund out of which payments will be made to strikers.
The delegates passed with only two dissenting votes a resolution to set up a "special emergency"
fund to provide striking teachers
up to 75 per cent of salaries.

Eric C. Ansley stated that approximately $77,000 could be made available immediately for the fund and that the fund would be supplemented by contributions of $1 a week per teachers during the strike and for as long after as deemed necessary. This provision was made in one section of the resolution.

Earlier in the convention Hon.
Ivan Casey, minister of education,
stated that before teachers consider strike action they will have to decide whether they wish to retain professional status or whether they should be defined as a trade union. He stated that the time is approaching when the decision will have to be made as they cannot continue to enjoy the privileges of a profession, yet employ trade union methods.

He warned that if teacher disputes cannot be settled amicably
the alternative would be the setting up of a provincial board exclusive of teachers and trustees,
whose decisions would be binding.

A resolution seeking a minimum basic salary of $2000 was passed unanimously. Other resolutions requesting more teacher participation in curriculum planning and improved teacher qualifications and status were also passed. Steps were taken to revise the teachers' retirement fund along more solid long-term lines; a stipulation found essential before the provincial government would consider further increases to the fund.
During the closing session Wednesday Miss Marian Gimby of Edmonton was re-elected president of the association by acclamation. Lars Olson, Holden, also received an acclamation as vice-president. Of the eight district representatives, four were elected by acclamation and four by ballot.

Acclamations went to Nicholas
Poohkay, Hairy Hill; Kenneth
Sparks, Sedgewick; W. Roy Eyres,
Arrowwood and Edwin McKenzie,
Medicine Hat.

Elected by ballot were W. D.
McGrath, Dixonville; Frank De-
wards, Edmonton; D. A. Prescott, Red Deer and Robert Kimmitt,
Diamond City.

Canada has one doctor to each 977 of population; the U.S.S.R.
has about one doctor to every 10,000 population.

One day while getting dinner
ready I heard the door slam.
Thinking it was my brother, I yelled out, "Can't you be more careful when you slam the door?"
I was very embarrassed when a stranger walked in.

MISS IRENE VOROS.
Hardisty, Alberta.

Meeting my cousin John for the first time in fifteen years, I thought, I'd recognize him, next time. A year later while I was in the city I happened to meet him and said, "Hi, John, how's the big boy?" With a strange look in his eyes, he said, "fine." I started asking questions and said, "Why that strange look in your eyes, aren't you my cousin, (naming his second name)?" He replied,
"I'm John alright, but not your cousin." Was I ever embarrassed?

Needlecraft News

by Pauline Roy

SEWING, KNITTING, crocheting and embroidery are good indoor sports for winter evenings. Each needlecraft has its own fascination which provides a choice for everyone. Whatever your hobby may be, you'll enjoy having one or more projects on hand to fill your leisure hours while talking to friends or listening to the radio during these cold winter evenings.

House Accessories

Hand-made articles for the home have always been fashionable. Lace and lace-trimmed doilies add as much beauty and charm to your dining room table today as they did years ago. Simple, plain designs in good looking patterns can be worked easily and give you that wonderful atmosphere of luxury. If you are well stocked in your own linen department, remember the parties and showers ahead for the June bride who really appreciates the much needed little extras to furnish her home. Gay potholders, good linen towels for the kitchen, pretty place mats, bath towels, washcloths, luncheon sets and doilies all make wonderful and suitable gifts. Many of them can be made from left-over materials and decorated with gay cotton stitches or embroidery. Doilies can be made from small pieces of good linen, decorated with lovely crochet or all crocheted if you prefer.

Attractive Bread Tray Doily

The bread tray cover pictured here is pretty and practical. Using a bread tray is not old fashioned as some may think, on the contrary it is a much used and necessary item for home entertaining. A pretty doily enhances the beauty of all silver dishes and is particularly good when used for bread, rolls, cakes and cookies. If you wish to have a leaflet containing directions for making the BREAD TRAY COVER, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper requesting Leaflet No. 7534.

Storage Beef In U.S.A.

United States current holdings of beef in storage at the figure of 86 million pounds is the greatest reported for this time of year since 1944 and the second largest since 1920. Frozen beef mounts to about 40 million pounds or about three-fourths greater than the average figure. All classes of pork in storage total almost 800 million pounds which, while not a record, is the highest figure since 1944.
